

Christmas Manifesto

I will not waste time on things that do not matter

I will snuggle

I will laugh loudly and often

I won't run and rush

I will not multi-task

I will sing Christmas carols off-key

I will not plan it all out

I will strive to be present not perfect

I won't overschedule but will leave white space

I will not recite to-dos but God's grace

I will write and speak words of gratitude

I will stop and take notice

I won't worry but focus on love, hope, & joy

I will remember the real reason for the season

I will celebrate the little, the ordinary, the mundane

I won't wander the mall looking for the perfect gift because I have already found it

Christmas Manifesto

I will not waste time on things that do not matter

I will snuggle

I will laugh loudly and often

I won't run and rush

I will not multi-task

I will sing Christmas carols off-key

I will not plan it all out

I will strive to be present not perfect

I won't overschedule but will leave white space

I will not recite to-dos but God's grace

I will write and speak words of gratitude

I will stop and take notice

I won't worry but focus on love, hope, & joy

I will remember the real reason for the season

I will celebrate the little, the ordinary, the mundane

*I won't wander the mall looking for the perfect gift
because I have already found it*

Christmas Manifesto

I will not waste time on things that do not matter

I will smuggle

I will laugh loudly and often

I won't run and rush

I will not multi-task

I will sing Christmas carols off-key

I will not plan it all out

I will strive to be present not perfect

I won't overschedule but will leave white space

I will not recite to-dos but God's grace

I will write and speak words of gratitude

I will stop and take notice

I won't worry but focus on love, hope, & joy

I will remember the real reason for the season

I will celebrate the little, the ordinary, the mundane

*I won't wander the mall looking for the perfect gift
because I have already found it*